

Flanders

Date

Sat, 02/20/2021 - 17:25

Activity

Skiing

We observed a large natural slide on Flanders Mountain that likely occurred on Thursday. The crown ranged from 2-5', but it's hard to gauge how wide it was, because it covered a lot of elevations. I'm including a photo with a rough approximation of where it broke—I think there is considerable overlap with the large slide that ran there earlier this season. We did not observe any other slides, collapsing, or cracking, but the wind did pick up in the early afternoon.

Region

Northern Gallatin

Location (from list)

Flanders Creek

Observer Name

Sam Reinsel